Privilege and Democracy in America

By FREDERIC C. HOWE

Author of "The City: The Hope of Democracy," and
"The British Cry: The Beginning of Democracy."

A book that presents in a manner that shows their true significance the problems that to-day oppress this country.

Monopoly and Waste—the causes of the Anti-Trust and Conservation movements—are chiefly dealt with; and in so vivid a way as to bring a shock to many.

The writer shows how through these two channels the foe of democracy has intrenched himself.

By OLIVE BRIGGS The Fir and the Palm

A book of striking contrast; dramatic situation; originality of plot.

The tumultuous love story of a girl lion-tamer and a noted physician, she a warm-blooded Italian; he, a reserved man of the cold-blooded North.

She begins her career in a travelling show. In its wanderings she encounters the hero. The complications that follow—the discovery of her extraordinary parentage; her self-sacrifice, and his development in the ordeal he passes through—all this makes up a stirring and notable romance.

Author of "The Perfect Tribute"

The Lifted Bandage

A strong, moving presentation of character, possessing the same qualities that made famous "The Perfect Tribute"—that remarkable presentation of Lincoln.

The Messenger

By the well-known Short Story Writer

KATHERINE HOLLAND
BROWN

A story of deep beauty and rare power.

It tells how to a woman of high position, in black despair, the message of hope and courage was brought by a woman of the slums who had known the same sorrow.

Modern Belief in Immortality

75 cents net

Postpaid 80 cents

By NEWMAN SMYTH, D.D.

A stimulating discussion of the grounds for belief in the immortality of the soul.

New arguments, pro and con, drawn from recent scientific research and discovery to supplant the old and threadbare ones, are chiefly emphasized.

The writer is logical, clear, and convincing.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HURST & COMPANY announce a popular theatre edition of "St. Elmo," which is now repeating as a play its long run as a book.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY have now on the press the 10th large edition of L. M. Montgomery's "Anne of Green Gables," and the 9th large edition of "Anne of Avonlea." On April 15 will be issued her eagerly-awaited "Kilmeny of the Orchard," for which the publishers expect the largest advance sale of any book they have ever published.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish March 12 "Privilege and Democracy in America," by Frederic C. Howe, author of "The City: the Hope of Democracy;" and "The British Cry: the Beginning of Democracy;" "The Fir and the Palm," by Olive Briggs; "The Lifted Bandage," by Mary Raymond Shipman; "The Messenger," by Katherine Holland Brown; and "Modern Belief in Immortality," by Dr. Newman Smyth.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just issued "Camera Adventures in the African Wilds," by A. Radclyffe Dugmore, author of "Bird Homes;" "From the Bottom Up," a unique autobiography of a ditch-digger, soldier, miner, socialist, preacher, by Alexander Irvine, now "lay minister" of the Church of the Ascension, New York City; and "Idols of Education," selected and annotated by Professor Charles Mills Gayley, a fearless plea for common sense in education.

A. C. McCLURG & COMPANY are publishing "Hopalong Cassidy," by Clarence E. Mulford, author of "Bar 20." The picturesque cattle lands described in the earlier novel again form the background for this tale in which a range war furnishes the excitement and a love affair between "Hopalong" and the daughter of a rival foreman, the romance, the whole told with spirit and humor. The house announces as well Edith Huntington Mason's "The Politician," in which a man faces the problem of choosing between a domestic and political life—afraid to marry the wealthy girl he half loves and whose money will help his career, lest by doing so he sacrifice her to the political ambitions which are the chief interest of his life.

A NEW book of vital importance to every corporation making a return is the "Treatise on the Federal Corporation Tax Law," by Arthur W. Machen, Jr., which Little, Brown & Company have just brought out. It contains the text of the Act of Congress, the Regulations of the Treasury Department, and Forms of Returns, together with a discussion of the important questions arising from the law, and full citations of the decisions under previous Federal laws taxing income of individuals or corporations. All the perplexing questions that arise concerning corporation returns are carefully discussed, and explained, so that the necessary procedure is clearly evident. Little, Brown & Company are finding the book in active demand throughout all sections of the country.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN Co. have added three books to their series Modern Religious Problems. "The Earliest Sources for the Life of Jesus" is by F. Crawford Burkitt, of Cambridge University, England. In it the synoptic problem is considered and Mark, Matthew and Luke examined. Charles Stelzle approaches the relation of the church to labor from the side of the laborer in "The Church and Labor," giving as a reason for lack of unity between them, the general enmity which exists toward the labor union. "Paul and Paulinism," by Dr. James Moffat, the third book, is by the author of "The Historical New Testament." "Little Brother o' Dreams," by Elaine Goodale Eastman, tells of a shy, poetic elf of the woods, who makes friends with a rich man's child from the city, and grows up to both a bee-man and a poet, the lover of his childhood's friend.

The tower of ivory is in the ancestral English halls of the hero, a young man in training for a diplomatic career in the City of Munich. The story plays when Ludwig II. of Bavaria was king and had Wagner's great operas performed for himself alone by the finest artists of the world. There are detailed descriptions of these operas as performed by a woman "with a past," who has a great influence on the young diplomat. He marries a beautiful American girl who gives him all money can buy, but cannot hold him against the intellectual temptations of the greatest Brunhilde and Isolde of the world.

This is a novel on international marriage by a husband and wife who have themselves made such a marriage. Mr. Brown is an American, while his wife, the author of "Haremlik" is a Greek. The scene of this novel is laid in France, both country and Paris life being portrayed. Here we have the foreign nobleman's side of the question set forth, the mercenary duke repents and finds he cannot marry without love, but many misunderstandings and many entertaining people are introduced into the tale before things come delightfully and unexpectedly right.

The scene of this stirring tale of adventure is laid on a mysterious island in the no-man's land near Nantucket. Morton Renfrew is cast ashore there, just as he has met with financial ruin. The place is inhabited by a gang of pirates and thieves, whose captain has his daughter and wife with him. The former is ignorant of her father's mode of life, while the latter is insane from grief over his wickedness. Renfrew is forced to appear to join in their plans and things exciting happen thick and fast before the satisfactory conclusion is reached.

Eastman, Elaine Goodale. Little Brother o' Dreams. Bost., Houghton Mifflin Co., 1910. c. 192 p. D. cl., $1 net.

Little Brother o' Dreams is a shy poetic child who lives alone with his mother and one farmhand on a wooden mountain. He makes friends with a rich man's child from the city, is taken away to their home and educated, but returns to his woods and streams, a bee-man and a poet, the lover of his childhood's friend.

Author is dean of Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, Canada, formerly chief of the U. S. Forest Service. Each country is treated separately. A brief statement of its political and geographical conditions precedes the discussion of the main topics. The chapter on Germany is naturally most complete, for here forestry has been practiced for centuries, and in this chapter we find especially the professional development discussed. The chapter on the United States brings the subject down to date for this country. Arbor Day as an evil as well as a benefit is discussed.

Forsyth, P.: Taylor, D.D. The person and place of Jesus Christ; the Congregational Union lecture for 1909. Bost., Pilgrim Press, [1910.] 19+357 p. O. cl., $1.50 net.

Dr. Forsyth is principal of Hackney College, Hampstead, Eng. The book teaches that the Savior with whom we commune is a personal reality and that "only God Himself with us, and no mere creature of His, could meet the soul's last need, and restore a creation undone." He says "the first conditions to be satisfied by any doctrine about Christ's person is that it shall be necessary to the central principle of Christianity that in Christ we have a gracious God." The whole book is permeated by a passionate experimental plea for the full God-head of the Redeemer.

Fraternalism and the church; by a devotee to both. [Dowagiac, Mich.,] Mac C. Chamberlin Co., 1910. c. 207 p. D. cl., $1.

Traces the lodge system, or fraternal order, with its influence on education and religious life, from its earliest form, and shows that it is intimately connected with the church, supplementing its work and teaching.

Gayley, C.: Mills. Idols of education. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1910. c. 181 p. D. cl., 50 c net.

This is a criticism of our educational institutions, coming from the inside, the author being professor of English at the University of California. The specializing, the choosing of easy or merely congenial courses, without regard to their educational or cultural advantages, the undue prominence of athletics, all come in for unfavorable comment. Much of the evil is traceable, Prof. Gayley thinks, to lack of early training in the secondary schools, whether public or private. The book is not altogether iconoclastic, but is suggestive and constructive.

The material of this book was delivered by Dr. Van Dyke as the Hyde lectures at the Sorbonne, Paris.

The essential features, qualities and ideals that are the main elements of the American spirit, as the author sees it, together with certain traits of temperament, and the way these things have manifested themselves in education, social effort and literature, are what the book treats of. Contents: Introduction; The soul of a people; Self-reliance and the republic; Fair play and democracy; Will-power, work and wealth; Common order and social co-operation; Personal development and education; Self-expression and literature.

Voices of prayer; or, thoughts on Psalm eighty-six, by the author of "Some aspects of meditation"; with commendation by the Rt. Rev. W: T. Gaul, D.D. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1909, [1910.] 12+98 p. S. cl., $1.

The beautiful Psalm beginning "Bow down thine ear, O Lord, hear me," is taken verse by verse, and a helpful lesson of dependence and trust in God drawn from each.

Voynich, Mrs. Ethel Lilian Boole. An interrupted friendship. N. Y., Macmillan, 1910. c. 401 p. D. cl., $1.50.

On June 12, 1897, Mrs. Voynich's "The Gadfly" was put on record. The Gadfly again appears, but the story has no connection with the first one. A lame girl and her devoted brother and the brother's friend are the chief actors. The story plays largely in South America, and the descriptions of conditions there are original. The peculiar friendship leads to many discussions on literature and many problems of life. The poor girl with the hip disease becomes hard and morbid, but she is always interesting.

Theology deals primarily with the facts of human nature. The chief purpose of this book is to show, first of all, that religion is concerned primarily with definite facts and realities, just as science is, and then that it is concerned with a realm of reality no less extensive than the immeasurable heights and breadths and depths of all the immortal potentialities or possibilities of human-nature.—Introduction. There are chapters on the future of missionary work, and the function and the future of the church. The author is a Swedenborgian minister.

By the author of "The woman pays," etc. Margot Lathom suddenly discovers that her husband, the idol of their little English cathedral city, has not only won her through a lie from the man she really loved, but has also defrauded the man's mother, whose estate he managed. Fenwick, the man who has proof of Lathom's dishonesty, arrives late at night to taunt him, and mad with fear of disgrace Lathom kills him. Fenwick looked like Lathom, so the latter changes their clothes and escapes, leaving a letter saying he has committed suicide. His struggle and redemption through work in a London settlement house and the final solution of his life problem make up the rest of the story.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 5, 1910.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PUBLISHERS' INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

THE arrangements for the International Congress of Publishers at Amsterdam next summer have progressed so far that we are able to print elsewhere a tentative program of papers and speakers. From this it will be seen that many live questions are to be discussed which are as interesting to American publishers as to English or continental publishers, both of whom will be largely represented. This series of congresses has been increasing in importance and interest with each biennial meeting and that in the metropolis of Holland, easy of access as it is, should be by far the largest gathering of any yet held. Incidentally, it is hoped that this meeting will be of value in bringing Holland into line with the countries of the International Copyright Union, from which it has so far held aloof, because it shares with America and Siam the unpleasing distinction of being hampered with a printing clause confining copyright to books manufactured within its boundaries.

It should be noted that the date of the Congress has been changed from June to July 18-22, a change which may make participation more possible for most American publishers. Unfortunately this will lose for the Congress and for America the presence of Mr. George Haven Putnam, who has at so many sessions been the solitary representative of America and who had planned his European trip this year to cover the June date. He will be represented by a report on American copyright conditions under the new law of 1909, but it is to be hoped that this paper will not be the only representation from America. We are glad to be able to state that the American Publishers' Association at the next meeting of its executive committee will be asked to take action as to official participation in this Congress and we may add an expression of the hope that several American publishers, whether as official delegates or as private members, will shape their European plans this year so as to cover presence at this meeting. The fact that this is the decennial year, when the Oberammergau Passion Play is given each Sunday, makes the year an especially opportune one for those who do not go to Europe on business or pleasure bent each season.

There was also to have been an American Exposition, held in the Exposition Palace at Berlin, July 4th to Oct. 1st. It is reported, however, that, owing to violent political and industrial opposition in Germany itself, this has been, temporarily at least, abandoned by the American Committee in charge. Mr. Von Heymel, a young publisher and editor of Munich, had come to this country with the special purpose of interesting American publishers in the exposition; and our previous publishing representation in Germany has been so slight that the giving up of the project is doubly unfortunate.

Also there is this year an international exhibition in the beautiful and delightful city of Brussels, in connection with which, late in August, there will be several Congresses of indirect interest to American book people. A Congress of Archivists and Bibliographers, August 25th to 27th, will be succeeded by a Congress of Librarians, August 29th to 31st, and this will overlap a Congress of Educators which will have some library features. A large delegation from the American Library Association is to sail by the steamer "Vaderland" August 6th for Brussels via Antwerp under special arrangements, and we should repeat the announcement that to any American publishers or booksellers desiring to attend the Amsterdam Congress, the Holland-American Line sailing for Rotterdam will be prepared to give special facilities on its steamers, two of which are among the most magnificent afloat.

THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL'S ANSWER.

THE Postmaster-General issued Monday his promised statement in comment on and protest against the documents and tabulations submitted by the Periodical Publishers Association to the House Committee. So far as it was to throw new light on the second class mail question the statement is a little disappointing; it is, nevertheless, forceful and explicit. It is evident that there is much to say on both sides of the controversy. The Post-Office Committee has submitted the appropriation bill without startling additions and happily without the threatened increase in second class rates, which, it was at one time feared, might be interpolated into that bill. It seems probable, in fact, as already stated, that there will be no legislation on second class rates at this session. This will meantime remain a burning question, involving not a little irritation on both sides. The Post-Office Committee has, however, introduced the voluminous bill for the reform of the Post-Office business administration, practically on the lines of the bill originally reported by the Penrose Commission, providing for a Director of Posts and other important advances. The bill is however so extensive and complicated that it is difficult to pass judgment upon it as an entirety and it is not probable that it can be put through during the session, however advantageous certain of its features may prove to be.

INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS.

THE biennial International Congress of Publishers will be held this year at Amsterdam, from July 18 to the 22d, inclusive, the date have been recently changed from June, the month first set. The present is the seventh session of the Congress, previous meetings having been held at Paris, 1896; Brussels, 1897; London, 1899; Leipzig, 1901; Milan, 1906; and Madrid, 1908.

The Congress is open to all publishers of books, music, works of art, reviews and other periodical publications, the only charge being an assessment of £1 per member for necessary expenses. The discussions will take place in the Dutch, English, French and German languages, and interpreters for these languages will attend all meetings.

It is intended that subjects dealt with shall be those of international interest to publishers, especially questions of copyright and trade rights in literary, musical or periodical work. To facilitate discussion the work of the Congress has been divided into three sections: Section A will treat of the copyrights of authors and of matters connected with the publication of literary works. Section B will deal with the sale of books. Section C will discuss matters bearing upon musical publications. The reports submitted to the Congress will be published in the French language; the conclusions arrived at in those reports will be printed and distributed in Dutch, English, French and German.

The Organizing Committee of the Congress are already able to announce a most varied and valuable list of papers.

1. The classification of former resolutions of the Congress; by J. Hetzel, Paris.
2. The Berlin Conference of 1908 in relation to the Berne Convention; by E. Vandeveld, Brussels.
3. The Berlin Conference and the Ratification of the revised Berne Convention; by H. Morel, Berne.
4. The influence of literary critics on the sale of books; by Rodriguez Novas, Madrid.
5. Report presenting a summary of the more important of the new provisions of the copyright law of the United States, which came into effect on the first of July last in the statute that was enacted on the second of March, 1909; by George Haven Putnam, New York.
6. What means could be adopted in Europe and America to keep up the full price of new books sold to private people.—Draft of an International Convention to keep up the full sale-price; by W. P. van Stockum, The Hague.
7. Maintenance of the catalogue-price and lowering of the too high price; by Max Leclerc, Paris.
8. The Commission-house for the Dutch booktrade in Amsterdam; by K. Groesbeek, Amsterdam.—Conclusion by J. Hetzel, Paris.
9. The literary agencies as a medium between publishers and writers in the publication of books; by W. Heinemann, London.
10. The inscription of the titles on the backs of the bindings; by ———, Paris.
11. The effect of cheap cloth bound reprints on more expensive editions; by Arthur Spurgeon, London.
12. The development of the copyrights in Germany for the making and selling of instruments with a view to rendering mechanical music after the revision at Berlin of the Berne Convention in 1908; by Gustav Bock, LL.D., Berlin.
13. Furtherance and international organization of means for the establishing of book-trade assistants abroad; by Victor Rauschburg, Budapest.
14. Reform of the rates of postage with a view to the distributions of periodical publications; by Victor Rauschburg, Budapest.
15. A proposal to prepare the publication of an encyclopedia of the International Book-trade; by Carl Junker, Vienna.

The committee also invites all who might wish to work out a subject suitable for treatment at the Congress to send their reports of the same not later than March 15, 1910.

The committee intends to make the stay in Amsterdam of all members of the Congress as pleasant as possible, and is quite prepared not only to do its utmost to make their Congress a success, but also to make their visit enjoyable.

THE GOVERNMENT'S REPLY IN THE SECOND CLASS MAIL QUESTION.

THE Postmaster-General in his promised reply to the Periodical Publishers' Association Monday reiterates the statement that the Post Office Department is losing $64,000,000 on second class mail matter; adds that, if it were not for this loss, letters might be sent for one cent instead of two; and charges George W. Wilder, in his pamphlet in defence of the cent-a-pound rate, as the spokesman of the Periodical Publishers' Association, with faulty premises and fallacious conclusions.

Mr. Hitchcock repeats that the average magazine haul is 1048 miles and the newspapers 291 miles, and insists that the statement that newspapers are carried mainly on light weight hauls is erroneous. He corrects Mr. Wilder's estimated bulk average of 100 pounds of second class mail to a sack to forty pounds, and points out as "a glaring and reckless error" Mr. Wilder's estimate that the equipment in postal cars was seventy-five times the weight of the mail carried by stating that the mail carried generally weighs more than the cars.

Mr. Hitchcock also denies categorically and in detail that the cost of foreign mails is assessed against second class matter; denies that second class matter is charged with the added cost of fast mail train service, and states that, so far from its being unfair, as Mr. Wilder had asserted, that second class matter should be charged with mail messenger service costs, "second class matter forms the principal burden of mail messenger service."

Mr. Wilder stated that most publishers deliver their periodicals to the railroad stations, and that therefore wagon service should not be charged against second class matter. Mr. Hitchcock replies: "As a matter of fact, only a small portion of the periodicals is thus delivered. About twenty per cent. of all second class matter in New York City is hauled to the stations by publishers, and periodicals form little more than half of this matter. The character and extent of wagon equipment in cities mainly depends on the volume of second class mail. The large double wagons are used almost exclusively for such mail.

"The association's representative," continues Mr. Hitchcock, "declares that only two and two-tenths per cent. of the total cost of the Railway Mail Service should be charged against second class matter. This statement shows a woeful ignorance of the Railway Mail Service. The mistake evidently arose from a misconception of the meaning of certain technical terms used in the department's reports, resulting in the erroneous conclusion that only seven and one-tenth per cent. of the second class matter is handled in the Railway Mail Service. The truth is that about seventy-three per cent. of such matter is so handled. The absurdity of the association's figures in this regard is best illustrated by a practical application of them. An estimate made on that basis would allow for handling only an average of one and a half sacks of second class mail on each train."

Mr. Wilder assumes that carrier collection service is charged against second class matter. This assumption, says Mr. Hitchcock, is without foundation.

"The contention," continues Mr. Hitchcock, "that second class mail should not be charged with its proportionate share of the cost of rural delivery is most unreasonable. Rural delivery is no more 'a governmental policy' than city delivery. These two services perform similar functions, one making delivery to the rural and the other to the city population. The department was conservative in charging to second class mail 40.23 per cent. of the cost of rural delivery. Statistics show that forty-five per cent. of the pieces of mail handled in this service consists of second class matter. Were it not for the rural delivery service the circulation of the magazines would be materially reduced.

"Mr. Wilder says that the year in which the department showed its largest deficit was 1908, when the weight of second class matter decreased 18,000,000 pounds. He fails to state that in 1908 an increase of nearly $12,000,000 in the salaries of postal employees and the retarding effect of the general business depression on the growth of the postal revenue combined to produce an unusually large deficit, notwithstanding the decrease in the quantity of second class mail.

"Still another erroneous contention advanced by the association's representative in his efforts to impeach the accuracy of the department's figures is that the cost of handling second class mail should be figured on the basis of matter paid at the pound rate alone, instead of on the basis of the weight of all second class matter. As a proposition in cost keeping this contention is most unsound.

"Possibly the assertion was put forward with the impression that the result would be advantageous to the periodicals. Such is not the case, however, and evidently Mr. Wilder failed to make any computation to support his assertion, for if the contention were granted the average cost for matter paid at the pound rate would be shown to be 9.40 cents instead of 9.23 cents, as estimated by the department for all second class mail, while the revenue from pound rate matter would be about one cent a pound, as against 1.143 cents for all second class mail."

POST OFFICE REORGANIZATION BILL.

BILLS for the reorganization of the Post Office Department were recently introduced by Senator Carter, of Montana, and Representative Weeks, and are now before the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads. The bills, which are almost identical, are voluminous and detailed documents, based on the extensive preliminary report made in 1908 by the Joint Committee on Business Methods of Post Office Department and Service, appointed in 1907 with Senator Penrose as chairman. The investigation made by this committee was thorough, and the changes recommended, based on the analyses made by a selected staff of expert public accountants, were sweeping.

The present bills provide for a permanent Director of Posts, in active charge of the business of the department and subordinate to the Postmaster-General. This office is not to be a political appointment. In place of the present four Assistant Postmaster-Generals there are to be seven Assistant Directors of Posts, in charge of the bureaus of Post Offices, Transportation, Mail Matter, Appointments, Finance, Accounts and Supplies, respectively. These offices are likewise to be administered by permanent officers, regardless of changes of administration.

To facilitate the detail work of the department it is purposed partially to decentralize it, by dividing the country into from fifteen to twenty postal districts, with a district superintendent of post offices at the head of each.

The bills also provide for the appointment of the Commission of Postal Appeals suggested by the Postal Commission on Second Class Mail Matter in 1907. This commission, of three members, shall exercise a quasi-judicial control over matters of postal appeal, especially questions of second class classification and fraud-order cases.

The main body of the bills is taken up with detailed specifications for the department's accounting, the object being to place it on a strictly up-to-date business basis, under a permanent, experienced and efficient executive control.

No recommendation is made for changes in classification or rates.

RAILROADS DENY THEY ARE CAUSE OF POSTAL DEFICIT.

A COMMITTEE of railroad men representing 139 lines, and composed of Messrs J. Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance and operation for the Harriman lines; Lucius Tuttle, president of the Boston and Maine road; Ralph Peters, president of the Long Island road; C. A. Wickersham, president of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad and Western Railway of Alabama, and W. W. Baldwin, vice-president of the Burlington, have prepared a pamphlet denying that the railroads are overpaid for mail transportation. They show that from 1907 to 1909 the post-office deficit increased 162 per cent., although during this two years the sum received by the railroads for mail transportation decreased nearly nine million dollars. During the same period though the postal revenues increased about twenty million dollars and the ton miles of mail transportation increased fourteen per cent. the second class mail tonnage remained practically stationary.

Continuing, the pamphlet gives these figures of revenue and expense: First class mail matter, revenue per pound 84 cents; expense of handling 49.92 cents, of which the railroads get 5.56 cents for transportation; second class mail matter, revenue per pound 1.14 cents; expense of handling 9.23 cents, of which the railroads get 3.19 cents for transportation.

The pamphlet, however, admits the force of the publishers' argument that second class matter directly stimulates an immense amount of first class mail.

DECISION IN THE HOOPER V.S. JACKSON CASE.

AN important point in corporation law was decided in the opinion in the Hooper vs. Jackson case handed down this week in the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals. The case, which is in continuation of the Encyclopedia Britannica suits, came on appeal from the New Jersey Court of Chancery, wherein an opinion was rendered on July 10 last. The present opinion not only holds that the courts of the United States have no jurisdiction to interfere with the internal affairs of a foreign corporation; but also, and more specifically, that actions for the enforcement of partnership agreements made by stockholders in a joint stock corporation, when intended to effect and maintain a control of such corporation, cannot be sustained.

This opinion completely overturns the decision of the lower court, which had been favorable to Jackson, the complainant.

The opinion, which was delivered by Judge Dill, is sweeping, and in part says:

Prior to 1900 the complainant and the defendant, Horace E. Hooper, had been associated in London, England, in the business of publishing and selling subscription books, "through the agency of a company known as 'The Clarke Company, Ltd.," an English corporation. In 1900 they acquired in equal portions all the stock of that company under an agreement that "upon the acquisition of the Clarke interests and so long as they might be associated together in business, their general policy in respect of their joint undertaking should be determined by mutual assent," each to "have and exercise the authority and control of equal partners."

In 1902, to avoid the English tax law, the business transacted in England was separated from that conducted elsewhere. The Clarke Company, Ltd., was dissolved and its assets and all the business carried on by the parties in interest were conveyed to two corporations, one, "Hooper & Jackson, Ltd.," of England, to carry on the business in the United Kingdom; the other, a New York corporation, "The Encyclopædia Britannica Company," to operate elsewhere. The stock and securities of these corporations were issued to the two parties equally in payment for the property thus acquired by the corporations from these parties. The bill alleges that both these corporations were "intended to become merely instrumentalities or agencies for carrying out certain partnership purposes" and to be subject to the original agreement.

In 1903, for reasons of their own, the parties dissolved the New York corporation and transferred its assets to an Illinois corporation of the same name and under the same general understanding that the business should be carried on as a partnership, with five directors, of whom the complainant and Hooper were two, the other three being "nominal" directors. . . .

From 1902 to 1908 the business in which the companies were engaged, including the publication of the Encyclopædia Britannica, extended all over the civilized world and ran up into millions, the accounts receivable alone, at the time of the filing of the bill, amounting to over $2,000,000. During all this time, according to the bill, the business was conducted in the names of corporations but always in accordance with the original agreement as to equal ownership, interest, authority and control, the three nominal directors being mere employees and automatons of the parties, and the existence of the corporations being always disregarded "except as agencies and instrumentalities created by them for carrying out certain of their co-partnership purposes."

In 1908 the complainant and Hooper quarrelled as to the business policy, and their differences having become irreconcilable the theretofore dummy directors voted with Hooper and against the complainant. This, as the bill puts it, constituted a breach of the so-called partnership agreement that Jackson and Hooper should have equal control and equal voice in the management of the companies and that the other three directors should be and remain dummies. . . .

The relief asked for is that the Court appoint a receiver of all the assets and joint property of the complainant and the defendant Horace E. Hooper, including their stock in the two corporations, such receiver to have the usual powers of receivers of assets of a co-partnership. . . .

After a careful review of the facts, the Vice-Chancellor concluded that while the complainant had been unable to establish the existence of a co-partnership between himself and Horace E. Hooper, he did prove that "the series of transactions set out in the bill . . . belonged to that class of transactions which are known by the name of joint adventures" and are subject to the same rules of law which apply to partnerships. He held that the complainant was entitled to a preliminary "injunction broad enough to hold the status quo and yet so limited as not to interfere with the orderly, regular and usual conduct of the business." . . .

In our view of the case, the fundamental question is not whether the complainant has established the agreement alleged, but whether, assuming that he has, the Court has the power to enforce it.

The first question, therefore, to be discussed, is whether, assuming the fact of the partnership or joint adventure, as alleged, to be satisfactorily proven, the complainant and the defendant, after the organization of the foreign corporations were, as matter of law, partners, or merely shareholders.

It is conceded that the corporations in question were legally organized, existing and doing business under foreign laws. It is not disputed that when the corporations were formed and the stock and bond interests acquired the parties retained no legal title to the property or business transferred. It is not questioned that the forms of law were complied with by the election of directors and officers and the prosecution of the corporate business. Indeed, the record abounds with evidence establishing the fact that the corporations as such, through their officers and agents, made contracts and in general transacted the business for which they were organized. Thus, from 1904 to 1909, promissory notes for over a million dollars were executed by and in the name of the Illinois corporation.

It is true that directors' and stockholders' meetings were seldom held and that the financial and other business affairs of the corporations were often informally and loosely conducted; yet, on the whole, the operations of the companies were the same as those of innumerable other so-called "close corporations" in which all the stock is held by a few persons, who are at one in the conduct and policy of corporate action.

It is claimed, however, that these owners of all the stock were really co-partners, doing business in corporate form for their own convenience, and that a court of equity has the power to control the property and affairs of the companies even to the extent of eliminating the corporate functions and powers as mere incidents and wholly disregarding the substantive law governing the creation, supervision and dissolution of corporations. We cannot subscribe to any such doctrine.

An agreement or course of dealing by which corporations are organized for the purpose of using them merely as agencies or instrumentalities, or forms in the conduct of a co-partnership or joint business, and by the consent of the parties in interest to be independent of statutory control, cannot be recognized, enforced or perpetuated by the Court of Chancery in this State.

It is fundamental that, no matter how the shares of stock are held, the corporation itself is an entity wholly separate and distinct from the individuals who compose and control it. . . .

The law never intended that persons engaged in business as partners may incorporate, with intent to obtain the advantages and immunities of a corporate form and then, Proteus-like, become at will a co-partnership or a corporation, as the exigencies or purposes of their joint enterprise may from time to time require.

The policy of the law is to the contrary. If the parties have the rights of partners, they have the duties and liabilities imposed by law and are responsible in solido to all creditors.

If they adopt the corporate form, with the corporate shield extended over them to protect them against personal liability, they cease to be partners and have only the rights, duties and obligations of stockholders. They cannot be partners inter sese and a corporation as to the rest of the world. . . .

We hold that the parties are not partners as to the corporate property, but mere stockholders in two foreign corporations, distinct legal entities; that the agreement whereby these dummy directors were bound to act in accordance with the will of the complainant and Hooper was illegal and therefore unenforceable in any court; that the whole subject matter of the controversy relates to and the injunction attempts to regulate the management of the internal affairs of two foreign corporations; that the Court of Chancery has no jurisdiction to entertain the bill and that the injunction and all proceedings thereunder should be vacated and held for naught.

For the reasons already given, the order appealed from is reversed, with costs.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY have recently inaugurated a Half Pay Fund for their employees. The president and board of directors are directed to create a fund to be known as the Employees' Half Pay Fund, and are directed to set aside, from time to time, at their discretion for this fund such sum or sums which with principal and interest shall be sufficient for, and shall be devoted exclusively to the purpose of said Employees' Half Pay Fund, as follows:

This fund to apply to all employees, except officers and directors holding more than a single share of stock, and shall apply to men reaching the age of 65 and to women reaching the age of 60, who, after 25 years or upwards of consecutive employment with L. C. Page & Company, shall voluntarily retire, or involuntarily be retired from said employment. Each such retiring employee is to receive one-half pay for life. This half pay shall be figured at half of the average salary received while in the employ of L. C. Page & Company, but shall not exceed in any case the sum of $100 per month.

At the discretion of the president and board of directors, other deserving employees may be retired on half pay without fully meeting the above conditions.

COMMUNICATIONS.

PROFITS ON NET FICTION.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Permit me to make the following comments on the article "Profits in Novels in England," which appeared in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of February 19, 1910:

I am not a publisher, so do not know the details of that business, hence arises this question to my mind. Why should the author appear in the problem of changing fiction to a net basis? The author probably cares nothing about the selling price of his book, provided he gets his stipulated royalty.

Assume that the royalty on a $1.50 list book be 15 c., then the publisher in making his selling schedule of 72 c., 81 c., 90 c. certainly takes care that this 15 c. is provided for. Say average price the publisher receives be the average of 79 c., 81 c. and 90 c., or 83⅓ c.

Now if that same book were issued at $1.20 net, and the dealer given 30 per cent., the publisher receives 84 c., which would just as surely provide for the 15 c. royalty as 83⅓ c. average above.

The author receiving the same in either case, why should he be interested in the retail price?

Respectfully,

PERCY DOUGLAS.

THE ANSWER TO MR. HOLT'S LETTER.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I rather doubt the advisability of your having printed in your February 26th number the criticism or attack on Mr. Henry Holt. At any rate anonymous contributions of this character should not be printed. They are rather apt to act as boomerangs.

I suggest, accordingly, that "A Hopeful Brother Publisher" come out from under cover in your next issue, although I dare say that Mr. Holt, who is well able to take care of himself, will devise some means to smoke him out.

Very Sincerely Yours.

L. COUES PAGE.

MARCH 3, 1910.

[THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY followed the usual editorial rule regarding anonymity in communications, always preserving it when desired by writers, providing they make themselves known to the WEEKLY. Mr. Holt is himself preparing a reply to the communication of the "Hopeful Brother Publisher" printed last week.—ED. PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.]

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the American Booksellers' Association's Tenth Annual Banquet Committee, held at 27 East 22d Street, New York, February 24, it was decided to hold the banquet at the Hotel Astor, on Wednesday, May 11. The price of tickets was fixed at $3.50. It was decided to invite the Booksellers' League to participate, as in former years. The following Committee on Arrangements was appointed by the chair: A. B. Fifield, of The E. P. Judd Company; W. G. Preston, of Dodd, Mead & Company; Charles A. Burkhardt, of E. P. Dutton & Company.

STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

PLANS for the annual banquet of the Stationers' Board of Trade, which is to be held at the Hotel Plaza, on Tuesday evening, March 22, are developing rapidly. The exceptionally representative list of speeches, previously published, insures the success of this part of the programme. The reputation of the Hotel Plaza makes certain the service of an excellent dinner.

There will be a number of well-known figures in the trade of other cities present, as well as the prominent local men. Frank W. Bailey, president, and Mortimer W. Byers, secretary of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers, will attend. Walter L. Butler, president of the American Booksellers' Association; Theodore L. C. Gerry, president of the New York Stationers' Association; George C. Whittemore, president of the Boston Stationers' Association, and Charles E. Falconer, president of the Baltimore Stationers' Association, will be among the local association heads in attendance.

PERIODICAL NOTES.

NEW YORK's first Arabic monthly magazine, The New World, will appear shortly under the editorship of Salloom Mokazel, the editor of Al Hoda, the largest Syrian daily in the world.

LACK of funds has caused the temporary suspension of the government's Daily Consular and Trade Reports, published by the Bureau of Manufactures of the Department of Commerce and Labor. The circulation of the Reports, which date from 1876, is over 10,000: the information they give of trade opportunities and new markets abroad is invaluable to exporting manufacturers, and the present change from a daily to a weekly issue is decidedly a backward step.

Van Norden's Magazine, started four years ago and controlled by Warner M. Van Norden, ex-president of the Van Norden Trust Co., has ceased publication, selling its subscription list to Current Literature. The magazine is published by the Eastern Publishing Company; its debts are paid in full; but its backers have lost upwards of $265,000 on the venture. The magazine was said to have increased its circulation from 10,000 to 100,000 recently, but was still losing money too fast to suit the senior Van Norden.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just issued "A Day of Souls," by Charles Tenney Jackson, the story of a man's social, moral and financial degradation and the final triumph of his good tendencies over his bad impulses.

SEWELL FORD has gone back to his first literary love for material for his new book, announced for early publication by Mitchell Kennerley. This is Mr. Ford's seventh book, and is a companion to his first volume, "Horses Nine," published in 1903.

MOFFATT, YARD & Co. announce continued good sales on three of their recent publications: "Life and Art of Richard Mansfield," by William Winter; "When Mother Lets Us Sew," by Mrs. Ralston; and "Who's Who Among the Wild Flowers," by W. J. Beecroft.

HILLS & HAFELY Co. have their bewildering assortment of Easter cards ready for the unusually early Easter day. The most tempting ones are in the For the Empire series. They are selling better every day and orders must be promptly placed, for the stock will be exhausted and there will be no more this year.

THOMAS D. HURST and Richard Hurst, publishers, are restrained by a permanent injunction from publishing "The White Mustang" and "In the Apache Country," two works of juvenile fiction by Edward S. Ellis. The books, which are uncopyrighted, were written by Ellis several years ago under the pen name of "Lieut. R. H. Jayne," and were republished without his permission.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. desire to state that the winner of the "Collier short story competition some years ago" was not Stephen French Whitman, but Rowland Thomas, with his Philippine story, "Fagan;" and that the prize was not $10,000, as recently stated, but $5000. Little, Brown & Co. are the publishers of Mr. Thomas' recent Philippine novel, "The Little Gods."

WHITCOMB & BARROWS, Boston, announce as in preparation "The Making of a Trade School," by Mary Schenck Woolman, director of the Manhattan Trade School; and "Euthenics, the Science of Controllable Environment," by Ellen H. Richards. A timely contribution to the discussion of cost of living is the revised edition of "The Woman Who Spends," to come out early in March. The added chapter on Household Accounts gives the book a practical application.

MICHAEL MONAHAN has turned over the publication of his book, "Palms of Papyrus," which he recently privately printed for subscribers, to Mitchell Kennerley. E. Temple Thurston's new novel, "Sally Bishop," published this week by Mitchell Kennerley, reverts back to the type of this author's earlier books, "Traffic" and "The Realist." However, so as not to frighten away the readers of "The City of Beautiful Nonsense," Mr. Thurston calls his book "Sally Bishop, a Romance."

THE Parisian booksellers are just now studying methods of repairing water damage, and the current issue of Bibliographie de la France even gives advice as to methods of treatment. Many volumes in booksellers' and publishers' storage cellars are now coated with a fine silt from the receding flood, and thousands of volumes are water-soaked. It is noted that if wet books are hung up to dry on lines, linen rather than hemp cords should be used, as the latter stains.

THE demand for Anna Katherine Green's new novel, "The House of the Whispering Pines" was so great that the Putnam's had to postpone the date of publication to March 1. They will also publish shortly a new popular edition of Ernest Haeckel's "Evolution of Man," in two volumes; a new cheaper edition of Elie Metchnikoff's "Prolongation of Life;" and "Lake George and Lake Champlain," by W. Max Reid, a dramatic history of a region rich in history and legend by the author of "The Mohawk Valley," "The Story of Old Fort Johnson," etc.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just published a new volume of criticism by George Edward Woodberry, "The Inspiration of Poetry," based on a series of Lowell Lectures. They also announce a new novel by Mrs. Voynich, the author of "The Gadfly," which made such a stir way back in '97. Her new novel, published February 23d, and called "An Interrupted Friendship," is a sequel to the earlier work in so far that "The Gadfly" again dominates the story. The new story is, however, complete and independent, with scenes laid in the jungles of South America, Paris and a provincial chateau, a Frenchman, Rene de Marteuilles, as hero, and a plot as powerful as that of "The Gadfly."

To write a short but perfect lyric is probably one of the most difficult tasks which a poet can set himself, yet to American letters belongs the credit of having possessed in Father J. B. Tabb a poet who, by the production of short lyrics alone, has won an enviable place among the poets of the nineteenth century. Father Tabb's death, a few months ago, has awakened such an interest in his poetry that his publishers, John Lane Company, will issue this week (March 4) a new edition of his "Later Lyrics," which contains probably the most noteworthy poems Father Tabb ever produced.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS' principal spring books in fiction are "The House of the Whispering Pines," by Anna Katharine Green; "The Rosary," by Florence L. Barclay; "The Master-Girl," by Ashton Hilliers; and "Poppy," the story of a South African girl, by Cynthia Stockley. In general literature "Abraham Lincoln," by George Haven Putnam; "Life of Porfirio Diaz, President of Mexico," by Jose F. Godoy; "Institutional History of Virginia," by Philip Alexander Bruce; revised and enlarged edition of "Tent Life in Siberia," by George Kennan; "Life of Senator Orville H. Platt," by L. A. Coolidge; "Life of Garret Augustus Hobart," by David Magie; "Lake George and Lake Champlain," by Max Reid; "Recreations of a Sportsman on the Pacific Coast," by Charles F. Holder.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN Co. publish the following books on Saturday, March 12: "The Professional Aunt," an unusual love story by Mrs. C. E. Wemyss, an Englishwoman who now makes her first bow to the American public; "A Study of the Drama," by Brander Matthews, professor of Dramatic Literature at Columbia University; "The Conquest of Consumption," by Dr. Woods Hutchinson, author of "Preventable Diseases"; "Little Gardens for Boys and Girls," by Miss Myrta M. Higgins; "The Principles of Pragmatism," by Professor H. Heath Bawden; and, in the Riverside Literature Series, "Everyman, the Second Shepherd's Play, and Other Miracles and Folk Plays," and "Selections from Irving's Bracebridge Hall."

H. M. CALDWELL & Co. sent their advertisement for the Travellers' Number so late that they could not read the proof themselves, and we feel truly annoyed to think we let a printer's error escape us. In listing "My High School Days" we did not let the type explain that the Diploma edition and the Alma Mater edition were only varieties of that deservedly popular book. The Diploma edition has already been a great success, and the Alma Mater edition, bound in imperial cloth, inlaid with a Mamut embossed medallion and boxed, will see in every town that has a high school. Also in our notice of Samuel Carson in last week's issue the statement was made that he accepted the position with G. P. Putnam's Sons as head of their Tract department. Obviously Trade department was intended, the compositor's pious impulse notwithstanding.

AN exhibition of unique interest to bibliophiles is that of the book bindings of Miss L. Averill Cole, of the Riverside Press, now being shown at the Houghton Mifflin Company's book rooms in New York. The collection includes some exquisite examples of leather inlays, in which Miss Cole is unusually expert. Among the special treasures of the collection are "The Life and Works of Geofroy Toy," in full green levant, with an inlaid panel in russet brown, elaborately tooled and with dotted gold background and richly decorated doublures in crushed levant; a dainty volume of Sir Philip Sidney's "Sonnets," bound in full cream levant, with wide inlaid borders in old rose and green; and the copy of "Marcus Aurelius," with which Miss Cole won the first prize at an International Exposition of Arts and Crafts at Brussels, a binding of full olive green levant, with an interlaced inlaid design on both covers of grey-green levant, blind tooled. The inner covers are even more elaborately decorated with doublures in levant, interlaced design and inlaid borders, with a gilded dotted background of wonderful depth and brilliancy.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS published last month four important books of interest to musicians: "The Violin and Old Violin Makers," by E. Mason Clarke, an historical and biographical account of the violin, with facsimiles of labels of old makers, a work which will be found of particular value on account of its reproductions of the old labels which are given with more exactness and fulness of detail than in other works on the violin; "How to Harmonize Melodies," by J. Henry Bridger, with hints on writing for strings and pianoforte accompaniment, a practical work on the harmonization of melodies; "A Chronometrical Chart of Musical History," by C. A. Harris, presenting a bird's-eye view from the pre-Christian era to the xxth century, which gives in perpendicular columns, miniature histories of counterpoint and harmony, notation, instruments, musical forms, and general events; in horizontal columns, a miniature history of any given musical period; in all a panoramic epitome of musical history; and "Imaginary Interviews with Great Composers," by Gerald Cumberland, a series of valuable pen sketches in which the salient characteristics and often extraordinary personality of each composer are truthfully portrayed, forming emotional and impressionistic sketches of the most noted composers.

H. M. CALDWELL Co. were the first to offer a line of books appropriate for the commencement season. They were also the first to issue a "Books for Commencement" catalogue. A new and third issue is now ready and will be sent on application. They have made special efforts this season to stimulate the trade to the advantages of this popular season, and offer, in addition to many new series, such as the Alma Mater Series, dainty gift books, handy volumes in size, inlaid with handsome and unique lithographed, embossed designs imported especially for the series; the Emeritus Series of classics bound in velvet calf yapp, divinity circuit edges; the Fraternity edition of the Alexandrian Series, bound with Mamut sides, inlaid with mother-of-pearl; a new record book, "My School Life," by Adrian J. Iorio; a new edition of "My High School Days," the Alma Mater edition; and new edition of "My Graduation," the handsomest school or college memory book ever offered the trade; "School Day Memories," "My Friends," etc., as well as the popular Value Books in various styles of binding. Samples will be sent to the trade upon request. The well-known Caldwell lines for the coming holiday season will be further augmented by additional titles and new series. Unusual attention has been given to cover designs, those on all series being absolutely new and the most original and novel effects yet offered. New artistic juveniles, together with many new gift books, are inducements offered to the trade that should cause them to wait and see the Caldwell line before completing their holiday purchases.

Directories for the Booktrade

IN two of our annual bibliographies we have included three valuable directories which are fully up-to-date and of pronounced practical value to publishers, booksellers, printers and others requiring reliable reference lists in their business:

1. A Directory of Public Libraries in the United States and Canada, containing over 1000 addresses of the more important ones, each with the name of the librarian, total number of volumes in library, total accessions during 1909, yearly income, and amount expended for book purchase during the past year. Nothing better in the way in a select list has ever been attempted.

This directory is part of the "Annual Library Index, 1909." 8vo, cloth, $5.00. Not printed separately.

2. A Directory of Booksellers in the principal towns of the United States and Canada, with their specialties noted (including the names of Department Stores that sell books), with street addresses in large cities. It eliminates the names of drug stores, cigar shops and newsdealers that sell periodicals and paper bound books only. No better selected list has ever been printed.

This directory, printed with interleaved blank pages for annotations, forms part of "The Annual American Catalog, 1909." 8vo, cloth, $3.00. Not printed separately.

3. A Directory of Publishers and others who issued new books or new editions during 1909. This is practically a list of every live publishing concern in America, and contains the names of a good many new ones.

This is also in "The Annual American Catalog, 1909." Price, $3.00.

For $3 you get the latest "Annual American Catalog of Books," with the Directory of Booksellers and the Directory of Publishers.

For $5 you get the latest "Annual Library Index," with the Directory of Libraries.

SHALL WE SEND YOU EITHER OR BOTH?

Hopalong Cassidy

By CLARENCE E. MULFORD
PICTURES IN COLOR BY MAYNARD DIXON

CLARENCE E. MULFORD knows how to write real Western stories, as his "Bar 20" and "The Orphan" prove. "Hopalong Cassidy" is as good a cowboy story as will be offered the trade this season. The five colored illustrations by Maynard Dixon—the legitimate successor of the late Frederick Remington—and the stunning cover design, combine with the taking character of the story to make this book an easy and rapid seller for Spring business. $1.50
